of the innovation in data storage has been driven by the need for higher capacity and lower cost. Larger capacity drives have been developed using recording technologies such as magneto-optical and phase-change, and lower cost drives have been developed using technologies such as hard disk drive (HDD) and compact disc (CD). In the quest for higher capacity and lower cost, HDDs were revolutionized by the advent of multiple-layer thin film recording technology. The use of multiple thin film layers ("bit layers") allows multiple bits of data to be recorded and read by a read head. The bit layers may be made from different types of materials, such as amorphous and crystalline materials. Data is written to the bit layer by heating the bit layer to a crystalline state, which produces a change in its magnetic properties by aligning atomic spins. The bit layer is read by a read head that detects a change in its magnetic properties. The recording head is positioned over a narrow track so that data is written to the center of the track. In early modern day HDDs, all the bit layers were aligned in the plane of the thin film of recording material. The recording material is made from a magnetic powder, most often in the form of nanodot-shaped magnetic crystals. By arranging the nanodot-shaped magnetic crystals in a given direction

Story ----- “On a far-off night, a group of heroes forgo everything to go on an adventure... and encounter an oni. While exploring the remote lands of Tarn Vostok, they encounter an oni and are forced to dive into a vast, arcane world. The five-man team struggles to survive in this world full of adventure, but will they be able to fight this powerful evil in the end?” 2B and Co., the leader of the “Trusted Sword and Shield Party” leave the elven lands. After traveling a long way from the capital, the party reaches a town on the ocean known as Ragalas. There, the party learns that the oni Garon has returned and has been terrorizing the area for the last few days. Knowing the nine-year old red wolf girl, the party goes to look for her. Upon entering the streets of Ragalas, they meet an elf who informs them about the oni that possesses the red wolf girl. Apparently, the girl has been chosen by the demon demon lord, Raiton. According to the elf, she needs to be purified by the powers of the Elden Ring. The legendary and sacred Elden Ring that was passed down for generations. It is the strongest magic in the world. If the party can purify the girl, they will be able to use its abilities to protect Ragalas. The elf says that he can help the party if they have questions about the oni and if they accompany him to the Elven Temple, they can acquire the information they need. The plan to obtain the knowledge of the Elden Ring has a flaw. While the party will be able to freely roam, they will have to cast a magic circle and keep it up for the duration of the journey. If the party gets caught off guard, they will not be able to break through it. Finally, they set off to reach the Elven Temple. However, soon after they depart, Garon appears and begins to chase the party. Once they reach the perimeter of the Elven Temple and the elf explains the situation, the party has one month. After that, the oni will possess the girl and enter the world of Elden. If the party can purify her, the oni will not have any power. ## What's new in Elden Ring:

- Title of the Limitless List: Your Power exceeds expectations A VAST WORLD FULL OF EXCITEMENT A vast world where open fields with a variety of situations and huge dungeons with complex and three-dimensional designs are seamlessly connected. As you explore, the joy of discovering unknown and overwhelming threats await you, leading to a high sense of accomplishment. In order to succeed, you need to first understand what the problem is. There is no problem that cannot be solved by a combination of the knowledge I obtained in the yesteryear and my ability to adapt those new tactics. Is there a way to get spare change for my ass in this thread somewhere? I'm building a house... PS - Hi bfo, not to be a dick, but could I ask of the mods to add a blank space after the thread title for proper spacing? Pretty sure whomever has to do this isn't as experienced of the forum as you and me!

I'm leaning towards it to use as the full front of the house and thus need to plan the piece to the top and bottom a bit. I figure there may be some answer here in "spur" as it were, so I figured I'd ask. The front and top piece is clay brick, the bottom is stone. Is there something like fa (the brick) or bsa for stone? There are several ways of specifying materials on T-Ray. You can wrap a material around a shape, you can use single square-bounded selections of materials and so on. In this case you would wrap a material texture around each of the four faces, and then add a Bevel modifier with a horizontal offset of 1.0 and a vertical offset of 0.0. This will produce a stepped cutout from the bottom to the top and thus cast a shadow. Subjective opinion here, but probably better with
