"Traveling in Rollercoaster Xperience is a mystical experience that opens the door to a new dimension where the music will join you in incredible fallings that will test your stomach." ... Read MoreAs the Brooklyn Nets start off their season, one thing is quite clear: the team is struggling mightily on the defensive end. Losing Alonzo Gee to a calf injury, the Nets have now lost four of their five starters in that department. Brook Lopez suffered a knee injury that has resulted in the other seven Nets in the starting lineup missing games. And that hasn't boded well in the Nets' lopsided wins. They've lost by an average of 22 points in four games. To make matters worse, the Nets have also been outscored 128-122 in the paint. Brooklyn ranks in the middle of the pack with teams like Orlando and Philadelphia. The Nets are averaging 99.2 points in the paint per game, while Oklahoma City, Memphis and New Orleans take the top three spots. To be fair, the Nets still hold the second-best net rating in the NBA. But the team's 56.4 defensive rating is a huge step backwards. It's a large ranking in comparison to the Nets' previous season, where they rank as the second-best defense. Here are the top 10 defensive rating totals in Nets history. Pairing Lopez with Deron Williams should help the Nets improve on that end, but it's clear they still have a lot of work to do.Negative pressure wound therapy with and without the use of negative-pressure pads: a comparison. The effectiveness of negative-pressure wound therapy (NPWT) with and without the use of negative-pressure pads was compared. To determine whether there is a difference in outcomes when NPWT is used with and without the use of a negative-pressure pad. Literature on NPWT and pressure-redistributing pads was reviewed in an attempt to gain a better understanding of how the NPWT devices can be altered to assist with the treatment of wounds. It appears that NPWT devices can be altered to improve the efficiency of wound care, but no conclusive evidence has been reported to support any specific change in the dressing. For wounds that are sufficiently large, it appears to be most efficient to utilize negative-pressure drainage rather than the more traditional wound closure devices. This is especially true when the NPWT-dressing interface becomes compromised.
